Comments: The infrastructure will not support 194 dwellings. Pleasant Hill Rd is not wide enough to accommodate the amount of traffic this would create plus since is so close to Carter HS this road is used for kids walking to school. Additionally, there is a natural spring on the property that run off would be contaminated affecting properties that are down from the proposed development site.

Comments: I respectfully request that the zoning hold remain in place. Our community deserves the same level of thoughtful planning and long-range consideration that areas like West Knoxville received before major development was approved. Rushing this process risks creating long-term issues that could be avoided with proper evaluation, infrastructure planning, and genuine community input.

We are simply asking for patience and the chance to ensure that growth is done responsibly, sustainably, and in a way that protects the character and safety of our area. Waiting now will prevent bigger problems later.

Thank you for your attention and commitment to making decisions that support the best interests of our community.

Comments: We have enough apartments and houses out here as it is. You people are overcrowding us and as well have brought higher crime more traffic more noise with a host of new people that in most cases are not very friendly. I get tired of hearing that's not the way we did it back home. You people may feel like you're accomplishing something and the only thing you've accomplished is destroying our quiet and peaceful neighborhood. That's it so don't think anybody is going to appreciate your actions. All of you should be in prison Comments: As a lifelong resident, a Carter graduate, and a local real estate agent, I have a deep love for East Knox County and a professional understanding of our housing market. My children and grandchildren attend the schools I once did, and I recognize that increasing our housing supply is essential for keeping home prices accessible for the next generation.

However, growth must be responsible, and the volume of 194 units at 8934 Pleasant Hill Road (Case 4-B-26-RZ) is a dangerous mismatch for our current infrastructure. My primary concern is the compounding traffic strain on a corridor that lacks even basic safety controls. There are no red lights to manage the flow near our schools or the local ballpark and library, and remarkably, none even at the intersection with Andrew Johnson Highway. Take a look at Brakebill Road. The construction alone destroyed that road. It is sinking in and breaking off at multiple points making it extremely dangerous. Never mind the increased traffic and increased accidents. That will be Pleasant Hill and Strawberry Plains Pike if this is allowed to proceed.
We are an underserved community with almost no commercial shopping and only a couple of small pharmacy for miles. The recent surge in housing in East Knox County also impacts the already ridiculous traffic near East Town as well since that is where many of go to shop at Walmart Target etc. Forcing this level of urban density onto a rural two-lane road without first addressing these massive gaps in infrastructure and services isn't just inconvenient, it's a safety risk. I support housing, but it must fit the reality of our area. I urge the Commission to deny this rezoning until the necessary infrastructure is in place to support such a significant increase in volume.

The schools cannot handle such a quick influx. The roads are small and adequate for more traffic and you are allowing so many wooded areas to be torn down that affect wildlife and erosion issues are developing also.

Comments: Knox County is one of the fastest-growing counties in Tennessee, and infrastructure is struggling to keep up.
 Roads, schools, and utilities are already under pressure
 Nearly 5,600 new residential units were permitted in 2024 alone, above the 5-year average.
Northeast Knox County has a distinct character—once it's gone, it's gone. Not every area should be turned into high-density housing, especially if it conflicts with the long-term land use plan.
Developers often get approvals without being required to fully mitigate their impact—whether that's traffic improvements, environmental protection, or community integration. That burden falls on current residents.

Schools and Day cares in the area are already full and there are several house still being built. We have one major chain grocery store and a small grocery store in the area.

Roads already can't handle the volume of traffic. Most importantly when do we start leaving green areas and farms for the wildlife and animals in the area to live.

from where o have my own home . The kids are already packed into the high school close by and traffic on strawberry plains is dangerously enough . I have witnessed at least three accidents there already. 194 aptartments is on,y going to make the situation here a Ready bad, . Pick some land for this away from private homes already established and also woth an easy safe in and out access . There is plenty of land away from this area for sale . This isNOT acceptable.! Comments: This rezoning 4-B-26-RZ can not happen realistically. Dumping what is considered to be an urban population density into a rural area is basically creating a planned failure for that population. No public transport, nothing within reasonable walking distance for food, medical care, and other necessities, . Existing infrastructure is based on rural demands and is deficient at that.

Not to mention the effect on the population that is already here who chose to live in the rural area.

The possibility that this apartment complex is destined to decay into a slum is great, unfortunately, because it will be isolated from the usual businesses and services that help support the typical urban dwellers.

I implore everyone to not approve this plan and avoid a disaster!

Comments: No more over crowding the schools, it takes away from our kids learning and puts way too much more pressure on the teachers. The more students, the less the teachers get to connect with the students, those bonds are what help find the learning disabilities and provide emotional support for the students. Our community has had enough. First it was that hideous industrial park off Thorngrove now these houses that are on top of one another and built way too fast to be safe and sustainable. I wish people would/could be more selective on who bought their property when selling it. No more selling to contractors. So much has been taken away from our little country community already how much more will be.

Ninety nine percent of these back roads are nothing more than paved tractor trails and cars barely have enough space to pass one another now!!!! More do we need MORE people here where our community is struggling to contain the people we have now!!!! We don't need more people!!!! I can also say with 100% certainty, for all of the people that live in this area, if we wanted to live in magnolia like conditions we would move to magnolia!!!!!! Keep the government subsidized housing units, apartments, ect OUT of our community!!!! There are TONS of buildings in other parts of the city that could be fixed and used for that purpose!!!!!!

Comments: As growth continues in Knox County, it is more important than ever to protect agricultural land from being converted into residential or commercial developments. Once farmland is lost, it is gone for good. This increases urban sprawl, and places additional strain on roads, schools, and public services.

Rezoning farmland for non-agricultural use prioritizes short-term development over long-term sustainability. Preserving these lands ensures future generations will continue to benefit from local agriculture, open space, and a healthier environment.

I urge Knox County officials to protect farmland by maintaining agricultural zoning and rejecting proposals that would lead to its permanent loss.

Also it is causing extreme loss of habitat to our wildlife which not only takes away their homes but forces them to move about more causing more accidents from the animals and just more people on the roads. For example Jefferson County having the water shortage was much more intense due to the over populating of the areas.

Comments: My name is Thomas Ethan Chester, and I live in the Strawberry Plains / Carter area. I'm here to speak on the proposed 194-unit development.

I want to speak not just about this project, but about what this area means—to me, and to a lot of families like mine.

East Knox County is one of the few places left where you can still feel what Tennessee used to be. Areas like Strawberry Plains weren't just named for nothing—this was farmland, a place where people built homes, raised families, and lived off the land for generations. That identity still matters.

Not every part of our county needs to become dense and developed. There is real value in preserving rural communities—not just for appearance, but for culture, for history, and for the kind of life it offers.

Tennessee is already losing farmland every day. If we're not careful, the next few generations won't experience what many of us have been fortunate to grow up around—open land, working farms, and a connection to something real and lasting. Once that's gone, we don't get it back.

I'm not against growth. But I do believe growth should respect the character of the area it's entering. A development of this density does not reflect the rural nature of this community or the direction many of us hope to see it go.

I would encourage the commission to think long-term—not just about what can be built here, but about what should be preserved.

Comments: Development like this ruins the make up of Knox county. We should be preserving our rural character and focusing on smarter/denser development in Knoxville.

Comments: We do not need any more apartments or housing in this area. We are saturated with all the development that is taking place. This area does not have the infrastructure for these many residences. That will be 400 more vehicles on Asheville Hwy at least twice a day. Look at the multiple houses on Brakebill Rd, not to mention all the housing that is being built on Asheville Hwy. It is a nightmare to get on the interstate now. Think of what it will be like after all this development.

Comments: I have seen firsthand the chaos that is happening in my own Neal's Landing Subdivision. The Ridge at Neal's Landing has driven some of my neighbors away from, especially those that lost their western view of sunsets and rolling hills. Now they see the back of houses less than 20 feet apart. Vehicles line the streets. Construction continues early in the morning and late into the night. Drivers speed onto the Main Street, which is Neal's Landing Rd.; this is so dangerous. Many people walk around the streets—runners, parents with children, mothers with children in carriages, elders walking. I am concerned about our safety from vehicles speeding and/or swerving around parked cars. The traffic in and out of the subdivision has increased dramatically, along with rush hour on Asheville Highway east and west.

Comments: I am a third-generation resident of this area, raising my children here, and I am also a small local business owner who has invested time, money, and heart into this community.
I am respectfully but firmly urging our district council to vote no on the proposed rezoning that would bring additional large-scale apartment development into our rural area. Our community was built on open space, strong local ties, and a way of life that people here have worked hard to preserve.
This is not about being against growth it is about responsible growth that does not overwhelm our roads, schools, infrastructure, and rural character. Once these changes are made, we cannot simply undo them.
As someone who both lives here and runs a local business serving this community, I see every day how important stability and thoughtful planning are to keeping our area strong and sustainable for families and small businesses alike.
I also believe that if any council member feels they cannot stand with the community they were elected to represent on an issue this significant, then they should seriously consider stepping down and allowing someone else to serve who will truly prioritize the long-term interests of the people who live here.
This community means everything to me, and I will continue to stand for protecting it for the generations coming after us.

This is a classic case of a wolf in sheep's clothing. A family purchased this land that were from elsewhere. They dont care about our community they are doing nothing more than selling out for proffit and move to a rural area with the proffits. Just shows you cant really trust neighbors any longer. Get this stopped our roads and schools can not handle this type of unwanted and very poorly thought out development. Only people that stand to gain anything from this is the owner of the property and the greedy tax collecting city of knoxville which will pad pockets to anex the area after all this stuff is built ! Get it stopped ! The entire community is against this project !

Comments: Please stop this. Our schools and community are already over crowded with all the other housing complexes going in. There needs to be changes made in many other areas before this should ever be considered.

Comments: Converting arable land to housing is not the way to do it. The developers want the land that is easiest to develop, but that food producing farmland is more essential than ever.
